Are you the parent of a teen or young adult?
Consider participating in our online study!

What is this study about?

- We want to find out what parents/guardians think about their child's readiness for the transition to adulthood.
- Being prepared for the transition to adulthood means having the behaviours, skills, and attitudes necessary to live life as part of your community.
- Youth with disabilities have fewer opportunities to develop these skills and attitudes.

Who can participate?

- Any parent or guardian whose child:
  - Is between the ages of 12 to 25
  - Has received pediatric rehabilitation services and/or transition services in Ontario

What's involved?

- This study is a one-time, online survey.
- We will ask you about behaviours and skills your child may need in adulthood, and about the healthcare services they have received.
- We will also ask some questions about you, and about your household.
- The survey will take between 10 and 20 minutes and all the information is in English.

What are the potential benefits?

- You will be entered in a draw to win one of six $25 gift cards.
- This study may help us learn about youth transition readiness directly from families.
- We don't expect there are any risks or harms to being part of this survey study.
